EDITORIAL OBJECTIVES

MANAGEMENT INTERNATIONAL REVIEW presents insight and analyses which reflect basic and topical advances in the key areas of International Management. Its target audience include scholars and executives in business and administration.

EDITORIAL POLICY

MANAGEMENT INTERNATIONAL REVIEW is a refereed journal which aims at the advancement and dissemination of international applied research in the fields of Management and Business. The scope of the Review comprises Strategic Management and Business Policy, International Business and Transnational Corporations.

MANAGEMENT INTERNATIONAL REVIEW stresses the interaction between theory and practice of management by way of publishing articles, research notes, reports and comments which concentrate on the application of existing and potential research for business and other organizations. Papers are invited and given priority which based on rigorous methodology, suggest models capable to solve practical problems. Also papers are welcome which advise as to whether and to what extent models can be translated and applied by the practising manager. Work which has passed the practical test of successful application is of special interest to MIR. It is hoped that besides its academic objectives the Journal will serve some useful purpose for the practical world, and also help bridging the gap between academic and business management.

Business Policy and Strategic Management

The International Business Know-how
Concepts – Tools – Practice

2nd edition
(in German language)

1995, XXXVIII, 963 pages, DM 98,– (approx. US $ 65.–)
ISBN 3-409-23150-1

Business Policy and Strategic Management presents the current state of the art from an international standpoint. In this didactically well designed and clearly structured textbook Professor Klaus Macharzina provides a systematic overview of the functions, tools, and practice of management:

- Organizational objectives and corporate culture
- Strategy, controlling, and organizational design
- Personal management and negotiations
- Innovation, quality, and cost management
- Information management
- Mergers & Acquisitions management
- International and intercultural management
- Ecology-oriented management
- Re-engineering and benchmarking
- Management by self-organization
- Management of core competences.

Business Policy and Strategic Management contains cases and practical examples from well-known organizations such as ABB, BMW, Daimler-Benz, IBM, Mannesmann, Mitsubishi, Schering, Siemens, and Toshiba among others, approximately 250 exhibits and over 400 questions and exercises.
The target audience includes students of business administration and managers interested in advanced training.
